At the Crossroads

Painting by Jasmine Johnson

I'm standing at the crossroads, the unknown is now in sight
Will I have the courage to move forward or be frozen here in fright?
The days past have given me wisdom, will I use it right
Or will I just make a rash decision and say, "Done with that, good night?"

I have the gift of yesterday and the hope tomorrow brings;
I have friends and family who give me joy and wings.
I have a mind to wonder and a heart to give me voice;
I have a great opportunity to make a better choice.

By Kim Pitner